

DIE STIMMGABEL

the Foreman's Fork

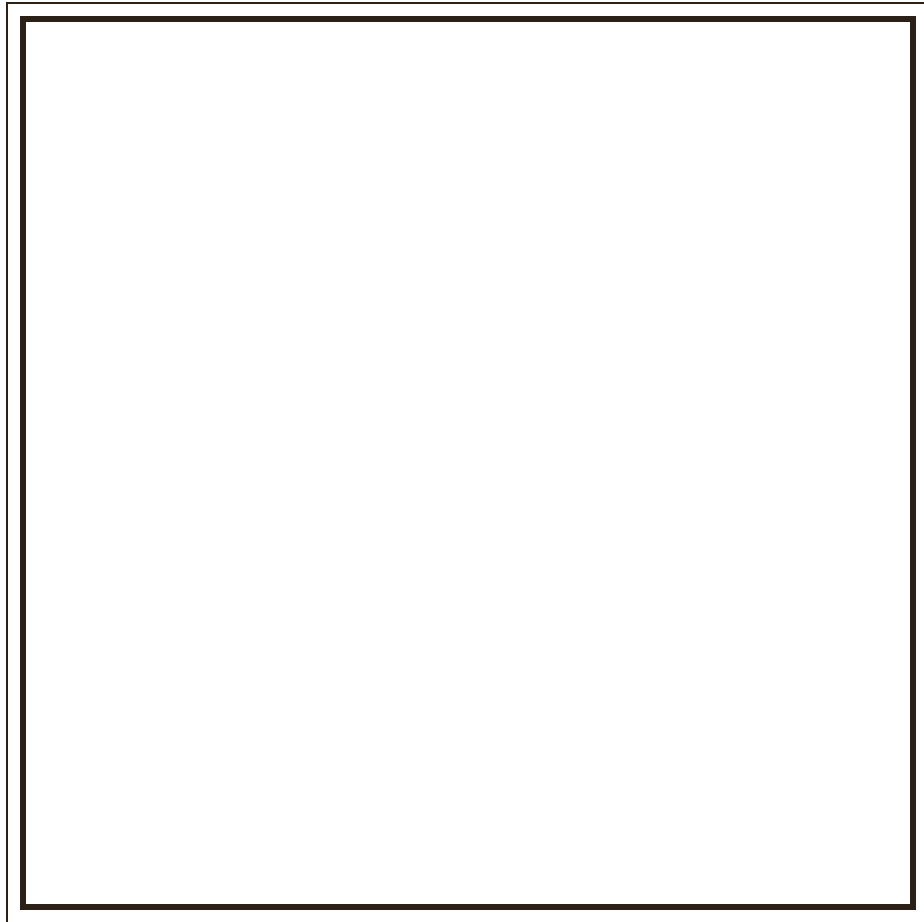

Brass, tuned to a plane. Stamped along the handle: Ω -CVX-A11, PROPERTY OF THE COLLECTIVE — DO NOT RETURN. Wilhelm appears to have filed it under do not.

Action — strike the fork. One modron of tridrone rank or below within 60 feet that can hear it treats you as its superior: it obeys your directive on its next turn.

THE UNPUNCTUAL WATCH

Wilhelm's own make

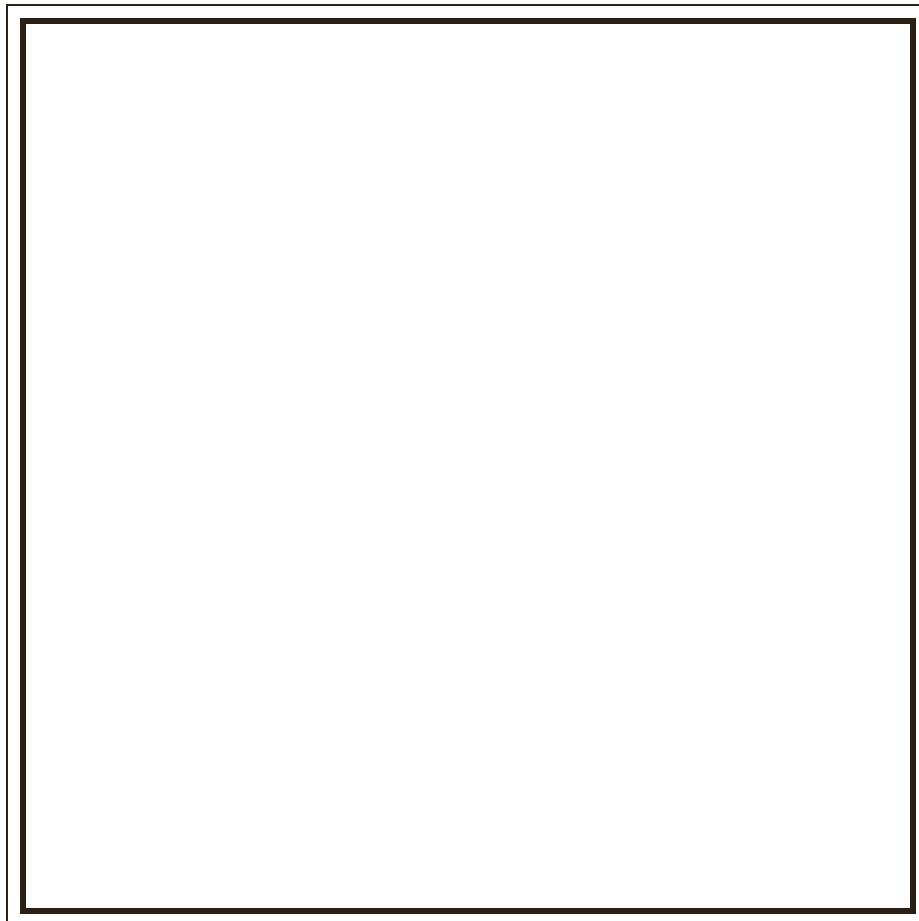

It has never agreed with the tower — not once in sixty years. He kept it anyway. Some seconds, he wrote, are worth disagreeing about.

Once, when you or an ally within 30 feet makes a d20 roll, click the crown: the last second unhappens — the roll is made again, and the new result stands. The watch then stops until wound during a long rest.

UHRMACHERÖL

Grade 3 purity — contract Art. III

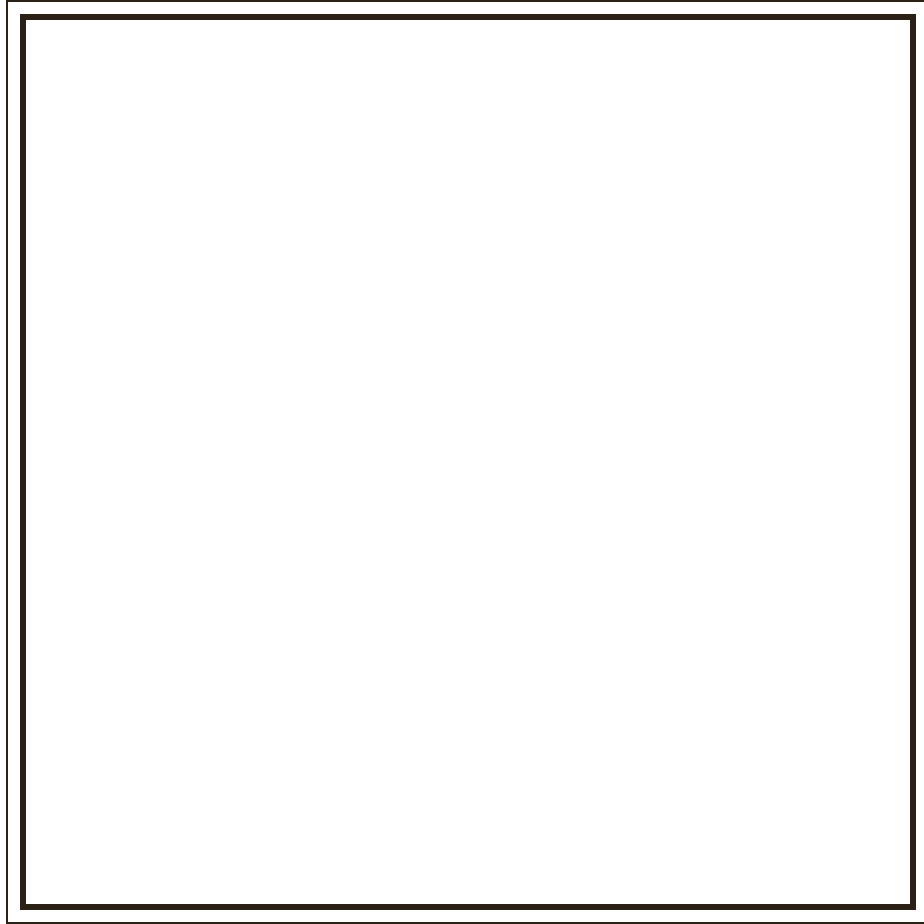

The contract demands "clock oil of no less than Grade 3 purity." This is Grade 3. It smells of brass and winter, and it knows where machines come apart.

Three doses. Bonus action — slick a weapon. For 1 minute, attacks with it against constructs have advantage and deal an extra 1d6 damage.

DAS KÜKEN

the Chick

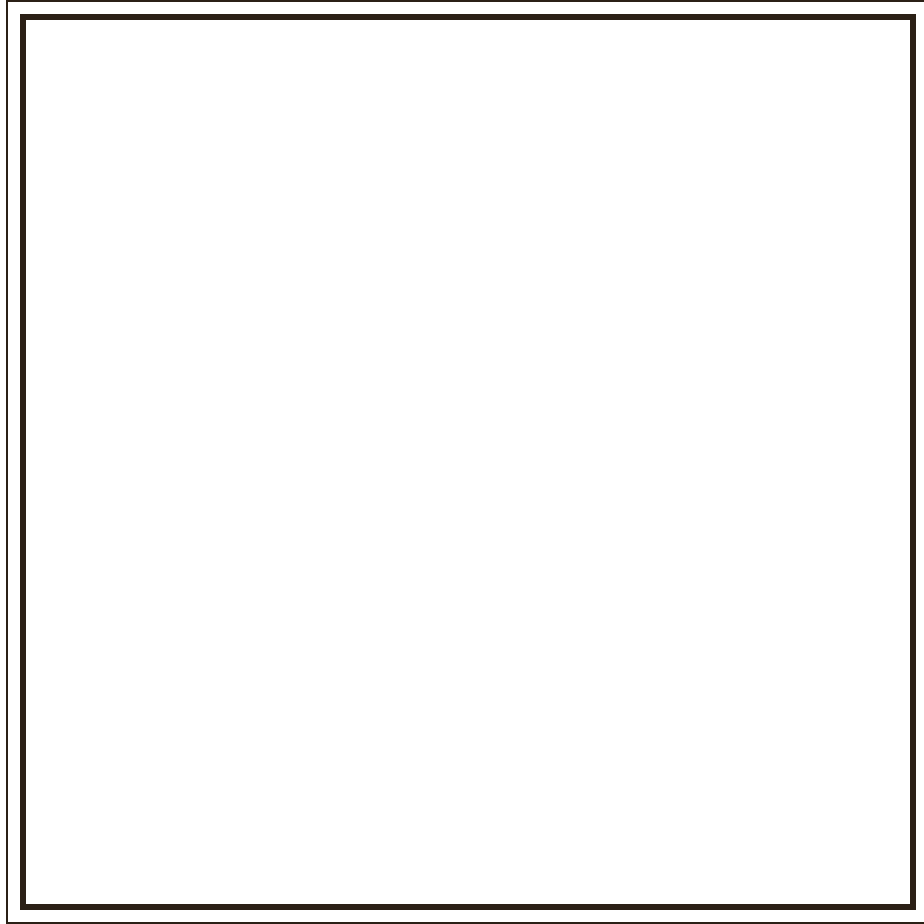

Wilhelm's first test cuckoo — hand-carved, spring-driven, small enough to sit in a palm, and absurdly earnest about its work.

Action — wind and release. For 1 minute it flies where you direct it (fly 40 ft) and you perceive through its eyes and ears. AC 12, 1 HP. Anyone may rewind it with an action.

DIE SPRUNGFEDER

the Mainspring Step

One of Wilhelm's sillier evenings. The housing fits a boot heel; the mainspring fits nowhere else in this world. Wind it, and mind the ceiling.

Bonus action — release the spring. This turn your jump distance is tripled and your speed increases by 10 feet. The spring is then spent; anyone may rewind it with an action.
